

Hello All!

I just wanted to tell all of you about an exciting idea that Mothers Fighting For Others (MFFO) has created. It's their first campaign and it's called "Underwear For Africa."

Rocky, the Co-founder of MFFO, spoke to her Kenya Volunteer Program Director with Global Volunteer Network, and found out that underwear is a luxury and most of the children in the orphanage do not have them. So she decided to go buy a few pairs herself. An amazing thing happened, a stranger at the store heard what she was doing and emptied her wallet and gave $19 to her.

Rocky was able to walk out of the store with 50 pairs of underwear! She quickly picked up the phone to call Julie, her partner at MFFO, and the brainstorming began! After 20 minutes of talking, Underwear For Africa was born!

The goal is simple. Collect as many packages of girls and boys underwear, sizes 3T-16, young mens and women's also (for the teens), and send them off to Mothers Fighting For Others. Better yet, if you feel inspired to do more, you can have your own drive!

Rocky and Julie have made it really simple. They have designed flyers to put up or pass out. All You need to do is download them, set a date and place, and start collecting those underwear! Rocky and Julie will keep you informed of just how many pairs of underwear they receive, and exactly what orphanages they will go to!

Mothers Fighting For Others
27943 Seco Canyon Rd #533
Santa Clarita, CA 91350

For more information, go to <http://mothersfightingforothers.wordpress.com/tag/underwear-for-africa/>

Like their motto says... "Just Imagine What An Army Of Inspired Mother's Could Do To Change The World."

I hope you will join me.